Farnham EVRA2015 Newsletter

Welcome to the January newsletter. We hope you all had a good break over Christmas and the New Year. With only 230 or so days to go, the EVRA2015 festival is really starting to take shape.

Teams Attending

We're up to almost 30 teams who have confirmed their attendance, so whatever else happens, there will be plenty of rugby over the weekend. Check out the website if you want to see who the teams are, but as mentioned last month some former British and Irish Lions will be here, as well as teams from all over Europe. If you know of any friendly clubs who would be interested in coming to the festival, please get them to check out the website soon.

RWC Tickets

Jack Royle at England Rugby Travel informs us that because of the high demand for RWC tickets, their packages are selling out quickly. If you would like some tickets for any game, please contact Jack (details on the website). Note: you will need a code to be eligible for the special rates negotiated for EVRA2015, which is only available to teams who have paid their deposit and confirmed their attendance.

The statue outside Twickenham stadium

The December Newsletter talked about the marquee and how that will be the focus of the weekend at the rugby club. But, we recognise that some people attending EVRA2015 will want to have some fresh, country air accompanied by the opportunity to sample the excellent local ales.

We're hoping to team up with our pick of the local pubs who will be delighted to show you a good time. And the photo? Well, what better way to travel around than by bus? We may even be able to make them available throughout the festival, doing a circular route from/to Farnham Rugby Club to provide a 'hop on, hop off' service. Watch this space for further news.

Escargots Team News

The Escargots suffered a post-Christmas hangover in the recent match against Richmond Heavies, losing....heavily. With the 6 Nations tournament starting soon, there's now a gap in the fixture list, allowing the Escargots time to come out of their shells before the next game.

Financials

Don't forget that the balance of your payment will be due soon: all the details for the various options to pay are available on the website at www.evra2015.com/payment-terms
